Resolution:

BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of Trustees hereby approves the changes to Ordinance 9.00: Aircraft, Ordinance 20.00: Curfew, Ordinance 34.00: Accidents - Traffic, Ordinance 35.00: Administration - Traffic, Ordinance 37.00: Wildlife as indicated in Attachments A-F.

Recommendation:

The Secretary to the Board of Trustees recommends that the Board of Trustees approve updates to Ordinances 9, 20, 34, 35, and 37 as indicated in Attachment A-F.

Prior Action by BOT:

Responsible Officers:

Stefan Fletcher, Secretary and Chief of Staff to the Board of Trustees

Summary:

The proposed ordinance changes reflect the University's commitment to inclusivity, community engagement, and environmental stewardship. The changes aim to promote a more welcoming and accessible campus environment, while also aligning with the University's values and policies as a land-grant institution.

The proposed changes to Ordinance 9.00 – Aircraft include language restricting landing/departing any aircraft, manned or unmanned, from MSU property as permissible under state law. This change accurately captures MSU's authority over aircrafts and the intent that no unauthorized aircrafts, regardless if they are manned or unmanned, will be permitted on campus.

The proposed changes to Ordinance 20.00 – Curfew conform with state law regarding curfew and the definition of minors. The updated title now defines minors as individuals 17 years or younger, ensuring consistency with the state's legal definition. This change is intended to provide clarity on the application of the curfew ordinance, which regulates the hours during which minors can be in or on public streets, highways, alleys, and parks.

The proposed changes to Ordinances 34: Accidents - Traffic and 35: Administration - Traffic remove gendered language to align with the University's inclusive values. This revision reflects the University's commitment to creating a welcoming and inclusive environment for all members of the community. The additional change to reporting damage $1,000 or higher reflects changes in state law. Additionally, DPPS no longer keeps a book or requires a record of taxi companies or licenses of that sort.

The proposed changes to Ordinance 37: Wildlife expand fishing opportunities to the public, students, faculty, and staff across the University's campus. The original ordinance, established in the 1960s, banned hunting, fishing, and gathering on campus due to its designation as a wildlife preserve. However, after significant review and community support, the University has decided to revise the ordinance to expand catch and release fishing on campus. This change is expected to provide additional recreational activities, promote the value of the Red Cedar River as a natural resource, and encourage public access to the University's campus. The additions will simplify regulations and aid in clarity where enforcement is needed. Changes to the Secretary's guidelines implementing the Ordinance under 37.01 are included in the resolution packet for reference.

Background Information:

Ordinance 9.00 – Aircraft

The proposed revisions to Ordinance 9.00 clarify the University's authority over aircraft operations on MSU property, consistent with applicable state law. Historically, the ordinance did not explicitly address unmanned aircraft systems (UAS), such as drones, which have become increasingly common in recent years. The updated language closes this gap by stating that no aircraft—manned or unmanned—may land or depart from MSU property without proper authorization. This change reinforces campus safety protocols and reflects MSU's intent to manage airspace use in a manner that protects privacy, prevents disruption, and ensures compliance with state regulatory standards.

Ordinance 20.00 – Curfew

The proposed changes to Ordinance 20.00 align MSU's curfew regulations with current Michigan law by updating the definition of a minor to anyone 17 years of age or younger. Previously, the ordinance lacked clarity regarding age definitions, which could lead to inconsistent enforcement. The revision standardizes terminology and ensures the University's curfew policy reflects broader legal norms, specifically the City of East Lansing's curfew for minors 16 and younger in. This amendment promotes greater clarity for law enforcement and enhances consistency in how the curfew is applied across campus and adjacent public areas.

Ordinances 34.00 & 35.00 – Accidents & Administration (Traffic)

Proposed updates to Ordinances 34.00 and 35.00 include the removal of gendered language to better reflect MSU's institutional commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. These revisions align with the University's broader efforts to use inclusive and modernized language in all official policies and documents. Additionally, language concerning damage thresholds has been updated to reflect current Michigan state law, which now requires accident reporting for damage of $1,000 or more. The ordinance also removes outdated language requiring DPPS to maintain a registry of taxi companies, a practice no longer in effect, streamlining administrative processes and aligning regulations with current operational procedures.

Ordinance 37.00 – Wildlife & Fishing Guidelines

The decision to expand fishing opportunities on campus is also driven by the University's goal to promote environmental stewardship and community engagement. The most recent change to the ordinance was in 2013 to formally allow fishing in specific locations, but only as catch-and-release. The current parts of river where fishing is allowed has some steep banks, which makes it less safe for anglers than other stretches of the river. Due to the Red Cedar River being a navigable water body, state regulations allow canoe and kayaks to navigate the entirety of the river, and these individuals are within their legal rights to have angler access from the watercraft.

The City of Lansing has recently completed a years-long project that operates as a water drainage system that keeps “tens of thousands of pounds of pollution out of the Red Cedar River.”¹ The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has been stocking steelhead in the Red Cedar River for the past 15 years, and the University hopes that by allowing fishing, it can help to discourage littering and other forms of environmental degradation⁴. By providing access to fishing on campus, the University aims to promote a sense of community and shared responsibility for the environment, while also showcasing the natural beauty of the Red Cedar River. The proposed expansion of access will remove negative stereotypes that the river is dead and dingy and instead highlight that the Red Cedar is home to 30+ species of fish.

A review has been conducted to answer questions about the potential for increased bystander and/or participant injury, but literature suggests there is only a very limited potential for risk. In 2014 across the US, fishhook injuries, including those to fishing participants, that have led to emergency care occurred at a rate of roughly 120 cases per million persons.

Not applicable.

Resource Impact:

The majority of these changes will not have a resource impact because the changes are clerical and provide clarity for enforcement and compliance, except for Ordinance 37 and the Fishing Guidelines. The expansion of fishing in the Red Cedar River is not expected to cause significant environmental damage due to the safety ordinances in place and the substantial stocking of steelhead by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). These measures have helped maintain a healthy balance between fishing activities and the river's ecosystem, ensuring the protection of the wildlife and their habitats within and around the river and campus. As a result, the increased fishing activity is anticipated to have a minimal impact on the environment, allowing for a sustainable coexistence between recreational fishing and conservation efforts.

There is a potential cost of additional or updated signage along the river. Landscape services has indicated they are willing to design and install safety and regulatory signage and will actively monitor the need for additional signage or changes needed to enhance safety.
