Dr. Webb said that his affiliation with MSU over the past 32 years has been a wonderful experience. He indicated that serving MSU has brought him great joy, but feels that his work at MSU is done. A point of great pride in his career is the fact that during all those years, there were no employee lay offs in his department, even through the most financially difficult times. This exemplifies the importance of people.

Dr. Webb thanked the Board for empowering him to serve MSU to the best of his ability. He thanked them for their involvement through the years at numerous MSU events. Dr. Webb thanked President Simon for all of her hard work.

President Simon gave the Board a 2008-09 Budget Development Update. She noted that, as in the past, materials will be made available to the MSU community. She noted that Michigan has been in the bottom 10 states for state appropriations for higher education for a very long time. That pattern will likely continue. Some issues that continue to be of concern include faculty compensation, health care, tuition costs, and student loans. MSU will stay committed to controlling costs and providing a quality education to its students.

It was a truly wonderful event.

Trustee Foster congratulated Coach Izzo and Coach Comley for leading their teams to post-season play. She also congratulated Coach Merchant for leading the Women’s Basketball team to the final game of the NIT Tournament.

Trustee Nugent thanked Trustee Foster for her work in planning the successful alumni events in Colorado. He congratulated Dr. Webb on being selected President of Spring Arbor University and wished him well.

Trustee Owen welcomed Dr. Harold Hughes to the Faculty Liaison Committee.

Trustee Ferguson stated that it was incredible that 22 students received the Trustee GPA Award. There are some wonderfully talented and gifted students at MSU. Trustee Ferguson noted that it was great to have so many students attend the Board meeting. The meetings provide an opportunity for students to learn about MSU operations, including how the institution makes the most of every dollar.

11. Public Participation on Other Issues

A. Graduate Employees Union Negotiations

Mr. Mark Gaffney, President of the Michigan AFL-CIO, said that the Graduate Employees Union is an impressive group of workers. They are also an impressive group of teachers and an integral part of MSU. Mr. Gaffney said that graduate employees provide services that are just as valuable as the contributions of faculty members. Therefore, the budget should not be balanced at the expense of the graduate employees.

Mr. Gaffney stated that benefits should be the same for all employees across campus. He noted that workers need to feel appreciated and treated fairly in order for them to be productive and do quality work. He asked the Board to support a contract settlement that is fair and equitable for all involved. He encouraged the Board to monitor negotiations over the coming days and asked that the administration recognize that these employees are some of the lowest paid on campus, but also some of the most valuable.

B. Graduate Employees Union Negotiations

Ms. Sandra Schmidt, President of the GEU, asked that the graduate employees be provided with working conditions that enable them to do their jobs well and attract the best graduate students. She explained that graduate employees teach one-third of the classes at MSU and are dedicated to teaching. Many hours are spent preparing for classes, grading papers, and meeting with students. Ms. Schmidt stated that graduate employees are hired to bring valuable experiences, knowledge, and perspectives to the classrooms at MSU.

Ms. Schmidt urged the Board to listen to the concerns of graduate students and make recommendations to the administration. She noted that the graduate employees are anxious to get back to the real educational work of MSU.

C. Graduate Employees Union Negotiations

Ms. Kristen Bott, Vice President of the GEU, said the most important contract issue is wages. She stated that current compensation is not sufficient to cover the cost of living in East Lansing. Ms. Bott indicated that the majority of recipients of MSU Food Bank services are graduate employees and that most live below poverty. She stated that MSU is at the bottom of the Big Ten for graduate employee salaries. Ms. Bott urged the Board to support a fair wage for graduate employees.

D. Graduate Employees Union Negotiations

Mr. Art Covert, President-elect of the GEU, said that the graduate employees are asking for health care coverage for one dependent. He noted that all other union employees on campus enjoy full coverage for their entire family, while graduate employees do not. The cost of dependent care coverage is very high. Mr. Covert stated that as MSU strives to become a world grant institution, it would be a significant gesture to offer dependent health care coverage to its graduate employees. He asked the Board to support graduate employees by supporting improved health care options.
E. Graduate Employees Union Negotiations

Ms. Deb Bittner, President of the Clerical Technical Union of MSU, read a resolution in support of the GEU. (Appendix G)

F. Royal Hanneford Circus Performance at Breslin Center

Mr. Drew Winter, member of the Students Promoting Animal Rights at MSU (SPAR), asked that MSU no longer host animal circuses on campus. An increased awareness of the plight of animals in circuses has caused what was once thought of as good family fun to be viewed as animal cruelty. Mr. Winter said that as one of the top universities in the world, MSU should be at the forefront of social progress. MSU can be a beacon for compassion and be on the cutting edge of social progress. Mr. Winter indicated that SPAR looked forward to working with MSU on these issues in the future.

G. Royal Hanneford Circus Performance at Breslin Center

Mr. Mitch Goldsmith, member of SPAR, said that the Royal Hanneford Circus has continually failed to meet minimal government standards for the care of its animals. He stated that the U.S. Department of Agriculture cited the Circus 26 times between 1993 and 2005 for violations of the Animal Welfare Act. Violations include failure to provide adequate veterinary care, medication, and treatment for animals. Mr. Goldsmith noted that additional violations, such as failure to provide enrichment and adequate space, were also cited. He stated that as understanding and knowledge surrounding issues of animal cruelty increase, it is important for MSU to cease involvement with such industries.

H. Royal Hanneford Circus Performance at Breslin Center

Ms. Beth Rhodes, member of SPAR, stated that MSU should not be associated with an act of entertainment that has even a hint of abusive activity connected with it. She noted that no other entertainment acts can be found at MSU where performers arrive in cages and are kept outside in tents and in chains when not performing. Ms. Rhodes indicated that other performers do not spend hours confined in cages and are not forced into doing tricks that are unnatural for their species by methods of fear, hunger, and intimidation. She stated that circuses have been condemned by the Humane Society of the U.S. and the American Society for the Prevention for Cruelty to Animals, both of which are animal welfare organizations, not animal rights organizations. Ms. Rhodes noted that as the poor treatment of circus animals is exposed, MSU has a responsibility to stop these abuses by not hosting circuses on campus.

Welcome Week Activities

Ms. Satpreet Kahlong, chairperson of the Freshman Class Council, said that the elimination of Fall Welcome Week activities would not benefit students. She noted that freshman students in particular would be affected. The days leading to the start of classes are a critical adjustment period for incoming students as it provides a time to become acquainted with campus. Ms. Kahlong stated that students need this time to locate classes, identify travel routes on campus, and purchase books. She explained that the college experience includes social growth for students. In the residence halls, Welcome Week activities familiarize students with each other and offer a safe environment for socializing.

Ms. Kahlong said she understood the complaints of some East Lansing residents regarding the behavior of students during Welcome Week. She does not agree, however, that shortening the amount of time allowed to move in will solve that problem. She asked that the Board uphold the tradition of Welcome Week for MSU students.

J. Amending University Anti-Discrimination Policy

Mr. Ben Morlock, chairman of the MSU College Republicans, urged the Board to amend the MSU Anti-Discrimination Policy. He noted that the MSU College Republicans had been charged with violating MSU's current Anti-Discrimination Policy. Mr. Morlock asserted that students at a public university must be able to express their viewpoints without interference from the administration.

12. Request to Adjourn

On a motion by Trustee Ferguson, supported by Trustee Foster, THE BOARD VOTED to adjourn at 11:45 a.m.

Respectfully submitted,

William R. Beekman
Secretary of the Board of Trustees
MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY
BOARD OF TRUSTEES RESOLUTION
HONORING CHARLES WEBB
April 18, 2008

The Board of Trustees of Michigan State University extends to Charles H. Webb its deep gratitude, support and very best wishes as he embarks on a new phase of an already distinguished career.

As Dr. Webb leaves his position as vice president for university development to become the president of Spring Arbor University, he takes with him the personal and professional admiration of the board and, of course, the entire university which he has loved and supported for so many years.

Since 1995, Dr. Webb’s exceptional skills of leadership and motivation have been put to the test as he has served as vice president for university development. It was during his tenure that MSU’s fundraising program became one of the strongest among the nation’s public research universities, and extended its philanthropic reach globally as Chuck attained status as “World Wide Webb.”

MSU has earned national honors for overall fund-raising improvement, and on his watch MSU saw its first ranking ever in corporate giving among the top fundraising programs in the country.

Most significantly, it was during his tenure that MSU’s fundraising efforts reached record-setting proportions. Specifically, he oversaw MSU’s recent historic Capital Campaign, raising more than $1.4 billion to advance knowledge and transform lives.

Dr. Webb has had a most distinguished academic career. Before assuming the vice presidency, he served as executive director of the MSU Alumni Association, assistant vice chancellor for development and alumni relations for the State University of New York’s 64-campus system, as well as director of planned giving for the institution that he will now so ably serve – Spring Arbor University.

The Board of Trustees would also like to extend its gratitude and best wishes to MSU alumna Philippa Webb, who has served this university with grace and distinction. Since 1993 she has served MSU’s nationally renowned College of Education, helping to prepare the teachers of tomorrow.

So as Charles H. Webb and Philippa Webb return to the university where they met and at which they both earned undergraduate degrees, the Board of Trustees, on behalf of Michigan State University, extends its heartfelt gratitude to both of them, wishing them the best life has to offer.

The Illusion of the SuperCoach

We've reached that point in the year when coach mania sets in. At many NFL teams, colleges and even high schools, fans and boosters are demanding: Fire the coach, he's to blame. At other NFL teams, colleges and even high schools, fans and boosters are exclaiming: hire the astonishing SuperCoach, he will bring instant success. The reality is, although there are a few really good football coaches and a few really bad ones, the majority are approximately equal. Most use the same drills and same plays, make the same mistakes, give the same press conferences, halftime tirades. They Churchill quotations! Giants, Cardinals and

A Cosmic Thought: There appear to be 50 billion to 60 billion galaxies, containing on average about 100 billion stars each. Not even Tuesday Morning Quarterback has the room to multiply those numbers out and estimate the totality of stars in the cosmos. But whenever instruments improve, the universe is found to be larger and more astonishing than we thought. Recently, astronomers led by King Sun of Michigan State University used the Chandra X-ray Observatory in Earth orbit to discover a huge "tail" of millions of stars forming outside any galaxy. Intergalactic expanses are vast compared with the galaxies themselves. Our Milky Way is about 100,000 light-years in diameter, and the next large galaxy is about 1.5 million light-years beyond the Milky Way rim, making the volume of void around the Milky Way far larger than our galaxy itself.

The intergalactic void appears to constitute the lion's share of the universe, and it has been assumed to be curved nothingness, no more than vacuum at just slightly above absolute zero. Standard theory says that only within galaxies could there be sufficient matter and gravity for stars and planets to coalesce. If it turns out stars commonly form in the immense intergalactic regions as well as within galaxies, then the universe might be far, far more populous -- in terms of stars and perhaps planets -- than even the 60 billion times 100 billion calculation suggests.

Simplify tuition and fee structure.

Federal Family Education Loan.
Appropriations

2008-09 Appropriations

- Governor's recommendation at 3.0% for higher education

  Senate bill proposes 3.0% across board

Issues to monitor:

  State cash flow

- 2008-09 revenues potentially less than projected due to national and regional economic down turns
Tuition & Fees

Simplify tuition structure

- Collapse energy and matriculation fee into per-credit-hour structure for 2008-09

- Improves transparency of rate structures for students

- Current tuition and fee structure comprises unit costs and flat fee charges that result in additional cost burden for students taking fewer credits

*Fees comprised of energy and matriculation fee

- Proposal to be phased in over three years
Financial Aid

- Approximately 70% of undergraduates receive some form of assistance. For freshmen, over 90% receive assistance when state of Michigan scholarship is included.

- More than $525 million in student assistance provided 2006-07
  - Comprised of merit-based, need-based, work study, loans, graduate assistant compensation and on-campus hourly student employment.

- Compared with $463 million in tuition and fees revenue.
Issues to Monitor

Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP) MSU providing low interest loans to students and parents- Loans are provided at 6.8% (current rates). After three years of on-time payments, interest rate reduced to 0% for the remainder of loan

- Program offers no loan origination fees, saving roughly 2.5% of the total principal borrowed
- Reduces total interest paid on a $10K loan by more than half, from $3,800 to $1,800

State has traditionally purchased loans provided by MSU and commercial lenders to provide benefits above to loan recipients

Current liquidity issues at the state level related to issues in the asset-backed securities market cast doubt on the state’s continuing ability to purchase these loans

- Threatens to impact benefits to students and annual income generated from this program that is applied to general fund financial aid
- Most observers believe that the FFELP program will be modified or discontinued over one, three, or five years

Budget proposal includes $1.0M to begin three-year plan to stabilize financial aid in the event of changes in FFELP program
FFELP Through MSU (Grad Stafford Only)

- Student selects MSU
- MSU sells loans to state
- State issues bonds to finance loan purchase
- State provides benefits to student
- Student repays state

- Favorable benefits to students
  - No initiation fee
  - Three year on-time payments allow for interest free repayment of final seven years
- State suspended participation in program
- Individual banks may continue
- Federal policy makers discussing changes/elimination of FFELP

Note: federal law limits school as lender to Graduate Stafford loan only
FFELP Through Banks with State Sale

1. Student selects bank
2. Banks sell loans to State
3. State issues bonds to finance loan purchase
4. State provides benefits to student
5. Student repays state

Favorable benefits to students
- No initiation fee
- Three year on-time payments allow for interest-free repayment of final seven years
- State suspended participation in program
- Individual banks may continue
- Federal policy makers discussing changes/elimination of FFELP
FFELP Through Banks w/o State Sale

Choice of Bank

Student repays lender

• Repayment costs greater than state supported program
• Repayment costs slightly less than Direct Federal lending
Direct Federal Lending

School determines participation

Student repays government

- Limited financial incentives to students
- Perceived to be the most stable program over long-term
• Preliminary increase estimated 6.3% for 2008-09

• Instituted faculty premium sharing in 2002. Current premium sharing requires all faculty to contribute 14% of their premiums

• Total compensation approach utilized in collective bargaining process. Salary increases tied to health care utilization. Seek to constrain total compensation increase to 3% annually. Approach preserves access and affordability to quality health care programs for all employees

Recent alterations to emergency room, urgent care and other office co-pays

Eliminated spousal inclusion for post-retirement health care during 2004-05

• Upcoming accounting requirements change for health care during post-retirement period, review in progress

On April 17, 2008, the CTU Executive Board passed the following resolution in support of the Graduate Employees Union in its efforts to secure a contract with Michigan State University:

WHEREAS, the success of MSU and its employees depends upon an atmosphere of mutual respect and problem solving in the MSU community; and

WHEREAS, collective bargaining is the way employees have of insuring their voice in the workplace; and

WHEREAS, the CTU recognizes the contributions of the members of GEU as employees of the University; and

WHEREAS, CTU is committed to building solidarity between the labor unions that represent MSU employees; and

WHEREAS, all MSU employees, including those in GEU, deserve to be fairly compensated for their contributions to their employer; and

WHEREAS, bargaining began in October 2007, and if approached with an urgency by the University equal to that of the GEU members, would have resulted in a fair and completed contract long ago.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Clerical-Technical Union of Michigan State University calls on the University to bargain in good faith with the representatives of GEU; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that CTU supports the actions of the unions at MSU to oppose all MSU labor practices that are unjust, exploitive and divide the MSU community; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that CTU will encourage its members to support the GEU in demanding to be treated fairly.

In solidarity,
